WILLS, PROBATE, TAX & TRUSTS

A will is an expression of your wishes, which takes effect when you die. You may think making a will is complicated and expensive, but for the majority of us, this is not the case. If you do not make a will, you die 'intestate' which means the law decides who receives your assets.

Whether making a will, or dealing with the affairs of a loved one, our compassionate and experienced solicitors can support you through every stage.

- Drafting and updating wills
- Disputing a will
- Probate and the administration of estates
- Tax planning
- Trusts
- Elderly client services
- Powers of attorney
- Residential care

CHILDREN & DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

We have one of the largest childcare teams in the region. Our experienced specialists understand the worry and distress conflicts involving children can cause and approach all matters sensitively and sympathetically. We advise and represent children, parents, other family members and foster carers. This starts from involvement of social workers and includes meetings, case conferences and any subsequent care or related proceedings, as well as the adoption process.

- Residence and contact orders
- Care proceedings
- Adoption
- Parental responsibility agreements and orders
- Representation for grandparents, children and other family members
- Same sex couples
- Legal aid
- Domestic violence and injunctions

CLINICAL NEGLIGENCE

Clinical negligence is a serious breach of your trust and leaves people shocked, traumatised and sometimes depressed.

As such, this complicated area of law requires extensive knowledge, experience and sensitivity.

Our clinical negligence specialists have a history of settling complex claims in a way that takes into account all symptoms, losses and possible long-term effects.

- Birth Injuries
- Orthopaedic and Trauma Cases
- Cancer Cases
- Negligent Surgery
- Gynaecology Cases
- Dental Claims
